

At the Confluence of Tradition and Innovation

THE RIVER AGED STORY, RIGHT ON THE BOTTLE

Cap indicates barge number where bourbon was aged

The only bourbon aged on a floating barrelhouse

Higher proof means greater flavor intensity and quality

Mellowed on the Mississippi for a smooth taste

The story of bourbon's special connection to the river

Aged in Kentucky, home of true bourbon

Tasting Notes

NOSE

Honey, aged newsprint, butterscotch and cherrywood

PALATE

Stone fruit, dried apricot, raisin, honeycomb and caramel

FINISH

Long, soft baking spices, cinnamon and allspice, warm rye spice, honey, citrus and orange peel

Awards

Our Straight Whiskey has won a number of coveted awards and accolades that show our innovation is producing exceptional spirits. These include, but certainly aren't limited to:

Double Platinum,
ASCOT

Consumers' Choice,
2022 Sip Awards

Case Information

| Size | Case Pack | Case Dimensions | Bottle Dimensions | Case Weight | Pallet Dimensions | Cases Per Pallet | Layers Per Pallet | |
|--------|-----------|-----------------|-------------------|-------------|-------------------|------------------|-------------------|--|
| 750 ml | 6 | 12x8x10 | 4x3x10 | 20lbs. | 5x20 | 100 | 5 | |

O.H. Ingram Straight Whiskey

The Extraordinary Taste of River Aged

Ingram River Aged is the only whiskey in the world that is aged inside a floating barrelhouse on the Mississippi River in Ballard County, KY. Here, our spirits spend their entire lives exposed to the river's constant motion and intense climate. The drastic rise and fall of the river forces a more intense interaction between the spirit and barrel. High heat causes the pores in the wood to expand and absorb more whiskey. At night, the river pulls the heat off causing the pores to squeeze the whiskey back into the barrel. High humidity on the river keeps the barrels and sugars moist to stave off evaporation and heighten flavor. This unique aging combines tradition and innovation – we call it Mellowed on the Mississippi.

Our Secret

BARREL

New, charred oak for maximum flavor

MOTION

The river increases interaction between wood and spirit

MICROCLIMATE

Variation of temperature and humidity create flavor from the barrel

A Connection to the River

More than 150 years ago, the original O.H. Ingram began his American success story by shipping lumber down the Chippewa River. Since then, the Ingram family has used the power of our country's rivers to achieve greatness. Now, his great-great-great grandson, O.H. "Hank" Ingram, is adding to the family legacy by mastering the combination of wood, whiskey and the river to create O.H. Ingram River Aged.

INGRAMWHISKEY.COM

What to Say About Our Spirits

O.H. Ingram River Aged whiskey is aged inside the world's only floating barrelhouse in Ballard County, Kentucky.

Bourbon first gained popularity from the smooth taste and reddish hue it achieved as its barrels moved down the river to New Orleans. By harnessing the motion and microclimate of the Mississippi River, we are going back to the roots of American whiskey.

Our innovation works – our expressions have been consistently awarded high honors and scores by some of the most respected experts in the industry.

O.H.
INGRAM
RIVER AGED